THIS WEEK'S HEADLINES

Virtual Book Fair

Although school looks a little different this year, Sango is dedicated to creating and providing quality opportunities for our students. Our library is hosting a virtual book fair.

Students will receive their book fair flyer on Monday, November 16 sharing a small sampling of the over 6,000 books and other items being offered. These items, however, will not be available at the school, but online only.

Orders will be shipped directly to your home. With a $25 purchase, shipping is free. There is also an option to set up an account for friends and family to take advantage of some Christmas shopping for your child. For more information, visit our library's website.

Ways to Support Virtual Learners

Between virtual learning and social distancing, kids are spending more time online than ever. Figuring out how to manage it all can be tough! We've gathered some helpful resources to support your kiddos in being happy, healthy, and connected online. In this newsletter, you'll find a mini poster for your fridge with go-to family night ideas, a breakdown of what tech talks to have at each age, and all sorts of tech resources to make online time fun and engaging for the whole family.

We would like to encourage you to join Publix Partners. Each time you check out, simply enter your registered phone number or pay through the Publix app, and Sango will receive a portion of your purchase. We have already received over $6,000. This money is used for rewards, motivation, and incentives for students, faculty, and staff.
